Regarding claims 1,15,22 and 23, as noted therein, the claimed invention requires inter alia generating a processing event with a first agent in response to an incoming call, transmitting the processing event to an operating space, identifying a rule set with a second agent which is associated with the processing event, identifying a communication device based on the rules and generating a processed event that indicates the identified communication devices and transmitting the processed event to the operating space whereas the closest prior art Gray et al. only teach processing an incoming call with a first agent and transmitting the call to an operating space and a plurality of rule sets, wherein each rule set is used to process the incoming call and do not teach or suggest generating a processing event with a first agent in response to an incoming call, transmitting the processing event to an operating space, identifying a rule set with a second agent which is associated with the processing event, identifying a communication device based on the rules and generating a processed event that indicates the identified communication devices and transmitting the processed event to the operating space.
